

Date: July 10, 1983

Author: Jim Gordon

Category: Gordon and other Talks-Reports

Jim Gordon, Albion

July 10, 1983

..... in place, the soul isn't rooted forever, and ever unless. Unless the soul begins to free itself, to pull the roots free, to become free from the physical senses, to withdraw and detach from them and no longer need them in their lives. To be aware of them, yes, but to need them no. And as that pulling away from the physical senses begins, the mind begins to lose control. Little by little the control is turned over to the soul, but just gradually so. Life unto life, life unto life, life unto life, the search must go on.

Finally as one begins to conquer the physical senses, he learns that still the mind controls. The mind dominates and holds the soul in bondage. The key beyond the mind, is soul control; but how does that come about. In order to achieve soul control one must go within and find the soul, not the mind. In order to find mind, all one needs to do is to close the eyes, focus on the third eye and you have the seat of the mind. The seat of your being, the physical.

If you allow that soul to maintain bondage in the mind, you will forever be caught in the cycle of rebirth. But if you raise your consciousness, your awareness, your being beyond the mind and into the soul, you then begin the liberation process. And this is what liberation means. Freedom from mind. So in meditation, go within and go beyond the mind. If you dwell upon thought, if you dwell upon an idea, you are living in the mind. If you go beyond that thought and become one with the universal, you begin to touch the soul.

As you go within you will begin to merge into the subconscious levels of your being and much soil will come forth from the inner being that has accumulated over this lifetime. As it comes forth, cleanse it and discard it. Do not become one with it and do not dwell upon it. Let it go for it is not a part of you anymore - that is the past, that is the mind, that is the physical being, that is not you.

As you cleanse the subconscious mind, you will find the mind rising higher and higher into great realms beyond the physical or what appear to be the physical. You will enter into the astral, into the mental realms, but remember the astral is the emotional and the mental is the mind. So still you dwell in the physical universe, still you live in bondage. Even though you open up to the superconscious levels of your being, you are in bondage to the lower realms of light. So go beyond those and search beyond toward the higher self, to the soul within, that divine spark that you are. Always search for the higher, always dwell upon the highest that you are and see that perception in you, that best in you.

Don't question it, don't doubt it. Know it. Live it, and be it. For until you can breathe the spirit of God you are not that soul divine. A word of caution, a word of warning... beyond the mind, beyond the mental planes of this universe - there's plane, a void. This plane is the plane that is spoken of in Genesis. "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth, and the earth was void." That is the first level of the physical creation. The earth in that sense is the physical universe and in the beginning at its first level it was void, and without being. And that void plane still remains separating the universal, spiritual being that is us and the physical universe which holds us here in bondage. Many souls high and low, have entered into that void plane from time to time and have called it heaven, nirvana, a state of bliss, universal consciousness, God divine. What is it? You still have not left the physical universe, you still have not begun the journey of the soul back to the Father creator.

So how could that be the Divine flame? The flame from which you came. You must go beyond that void plane and into the internal and eternal light. You must go within and then you must go upward into the Divine presence, beyond the physical universe and into the God consciousness.

In your meditations daily call forth for your own master to come forth, whether it be someone near or someone far. He is here for a purpose, a divine purpose. In your heart daily with each breath that you breathe, call forth for his being to come forth and be with you. Call forth and ask him to manifest the light divine within you. Eventually one day, one lifetime, he will come to you in the physical being. You will be drawn to him or he will come to you. It does not matter, when the day is right the Master shall come and He will take your hand and he will begin to guide you beyond that void plane. That is the purpose of the divine master, a living saint. He comes here not to present truth of the physical universe. He does not come here to misguide you down paths that will lead you in bondage once again. He comes with one purpose. He comes with one statement in his heart, in his mind, in his being and that is to become one with the Divine and move upward with me. He will show you the path outward from the physical universe to the creation, to the Heavenly Father. It's a simple task, it's a simple way, it's a straight and narrow path that Jesus spoke of.

But simplicity often confuses us and often repels us because we want the complexities of life. For in those complexities we can buffer feelings of our senses and confuse the mind so that we do not have to think so often about ourselves and our unhappiness. But if you can walk that simple path for a short time, you will begin to let go of the physical realm and someday that physical realm will let go of you and you will be at one with the higher.

A Master is nothing more than a reflection of your higher self and as that reflection he takes you up- up beyond the void plane and introduces yourself to your higher self, your soul. In that introduction his job was done for then the true self, that divine part of you, which we are all a part of begins to guide you back unto the Father - into that eternal bliss.

Become one with that nature. Call forth for your Master to come and you shall do so. I dwell upon the physical planes in a level of service to humanity. Whether I am your Master or not matters not. I call forth for all of you to dwell upon the physical planes of service. Open your hearts to us. Become one with our ideals of light. Take our hands and walk that path into the eternal truth. Call forth and we shall be there. Until next time, beloved, we leave you in peace, we leave you in love, and light, light, light. Be ever more at one with the divine light. So let it be, so let it be, so let it be...